Large Registration In City Schools

360 Enrolled on Opening Day of Fall Term—235 Freshmen Registered at High School Bringing Total Enrollment to 967—Expect to Increase Registration Due to Early Opening.

With registration figures at the end of the second day of school only 37 under the total registration for the first term of school in 1923, indications point to the fact that there will be a record-breaking attendance at the public schools of the city for the first term of the current school year. At the close of school on Wednesday evening, 3,860 students had enrolled in the different schools. The total registration for the first term last year was 3,897.

At the Kingston High School there are already 43 more students registered than there were throughout the entire first term in 1923. Wednesday afternoon, 967 students had registered for instruction while last year the total enrollment for the term was 924.

The large increase in enrollment at the high school is largely due to the large number of students, who are entering the school for the first time. On Tuesday, 235 freshmen were registered.

In view of the fact that school was opened unusually early this year school officials believe that before the end of next week the registration will be greatly increased. The high school is the only place where it is expected that crowded conditions will prevail to any extent. It is safe to predict that by the end of next week registration there will go well over the one thousand mark. It is altogether possible that this increased registration will not present any serious problem until next January, when another class will enter grammar schools from the different grammar schools of the city.

The registration at the different schools at the close of school on Wednesday was as follows:

School No. 1.....	87
School No. 2.....	349
School No. 3.....	289
School No. 4.....	400
School No. 5.....	453
School No. 6.....	457
School No. 7.....	414
School No. 8.....	413
K. H. S.....	967

Poughkeepsie Bridge Hearing

In order that the actual construction may be expedited, the public service commission at 30 Church street, New York city, on Friday, September 6, at 11 a. m., will give a public hearing, as required by law, for an order directing the manner in which the new Mid-Hudson bridge, to cross the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie, shall cross the tracks of the New York Central and the West Shore Railroads. The plans proposed call for the new vehicular highway bridge passing over the railroad tracks.

It is generally understood that an agreement has been reached between the state highway officials and the officials of the New York Central Railroad over the widening of the span over the tracks. The cost of this extra widening will be about $5,000 extra and has been agreed upon by the state department.

The hearing although it is necessary as the permission must be granted for the crossing of the tracks by the public service commission is nothing more than a technical detail and there will be no opposition on the part of either the state or the New York Central Railroad as the bridge is to be far above the required height of bridges crossing railroad tracks.

APPELLATE DIVISION TO MEET SEPTEMBER 9

The appellate division of the Supreme court, third department, will reconvene for the first term after the summer recess at Albany Tuesday, September 9, at 2 o'clock and begin work on one of the largest calendars in the history of the court. Decisions in the remaining cases not decided at the May term will be handed down Wednesday and attorneys who have passed the state bar examination and live within the jurisdiction of the court will be sworn in Thursday.

The committee on character and fitness of the bar association will meet at the clerk's office Tuesday morning to examine the candidates. The committee comprises Randall J. LeBoeuf, former justice of the Supreme court, and Patrick C. Dugan, of Albany, and Willis E. Heaton, former surrogate of Rensselaer county, of Troy.

Lowery Died at Vassar Hospital

Creek Locks Man Found Unconscious Near Staatsburgh Tuesday Night and Was Hurried to Poughkeepsie Hospital—Body Later Identified and Brought Here.

William L. Lowery of Creek Locks died in the Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, Wednesday, from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile or fell from a motor truck or touring car Tuesday night near Staatsburgh.

Lowery was found lying in an unconscious condition at the side of the state road about a mile and a half south of Staatsburgh at 10:45 o'clock Tuesday night, and was hurried to the hospital.

The Dutchess county authorities made every effort to ascertain his identity and were finally successful. The Poughkeepsie Evening Star of Wednesday in reporting the affair said: "In the pockets of the man was found a small note book containing the names of fifteen or twenty persons, one being that of 'Leo P. Trandee, Kingston, R. I.' Another is given as 'Kid Lowery, send card, but no definite address.'"

"That Lowery had either been in Ulster county or was on his way here was shown by the fact that there was a Rosendale bus time table found in his pockets. It is believed, however, that he was headed north at the time he was struck, but whether he had come from Ulster county by way of the Highland ferry is not known."

The body when identified as that of Lowery was turned over to Stock & Cordts of this city, and the funeral will be held from the late residence, at Creek Locks Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, with a Requiem Mass for the repose of his soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery at Rosendale.

The dead man was 25 years old and was born at Creek Locks. He was held in high esteem by all who knew him. Besides his mother he is survived by one brother, Frank, of Creek Locks and two sisters, Mrs. William McDonald and Mrs. Joseph Craven of Ossining.

Flyers' Start to Boston Delayed

May Not Hop Off From Pictou Until Friday or Saturday—Italian Aviator Explains He Did Not Intend to Steal Americans' Thunder.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
On Board U. S. S. Cruiser Richmond, off Pictou, N. S., Sept. 4.—(By wireless)—Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, United States Army aviators, who are on the last long American lap of their round-the-world flight, rested up here today while their planes were overhauled and minor repairs were made.

This is the flyers' last stop before reaching United States soil. They hope to hop off for Boston, 520 miles away, tomorrow morning or Saturday.

When Smith and Nelson leave Pictou they will be accompanied by Lieutenant Leigh Wade, who fell into the sea between the Orkney Islands and Iceland. A plane is waiting at Pictou to replace the one lost at sea.

It was found that one of the rods connecting the pontoons to Smith's plane had been lost and it is being replaced today.

Locatelli Explains His Speed.
Boston, Mass., Sept. 4.—Keenly disappointed over the delay in the arrival of the American flyers on the flight that would bring them once more over American territory, Boston today postponed the rousing welcome it will tender the Madagascans of the air until tomorrow.

Flying fans planned to pass the intervening time in watching the squadron of 14 planes which arrived from New York, and in keeping track of Lieut. Antonio Locatelli, the Italian birdman, who, with his three companions arrived in port on the destroyer Lawrence yesterday afternoon.

Locatelli was somewhat embarrassed by discovering that Boston had an idea that he was "trying to steal the American's thunder" by jumping into the lead as he did on the flight that ended when he was forced down into the ice cluttered sea off Cape Farewell. Since his arrival he has been assuring every one that he had no such intention and that the only reason he scooted past the Americans was because of the speed and flying requirements of his type of airplane.

U. S. Can Collect, Says Mellon

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 4.—Taking up his official duties here after a two months' tour of the capitals of Europe, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon declared today that his observations abroad convinced him that the European governments were making a conscientious effort to bring about a settlement of the reparations problem and that the progress thus far gave promise of a general era of world prosperity.

Payment of reparations by Germany through the operation of the Dawes plan will make it possible, Mellon said, for the United States to begin the collection of the $6,000,000,000 of war debts owed by European nations.

Mellon planned to confer during the afternoon with President Coolidge to report on European economic conditions and to discuss the immediate policy of the United States with respect to the European debts and other fiscal matters involved in the reparations settlement.

Premier Appeals For Arbitration

English Premier Says America Will Return to European Councils When Europe Sets Her House in Order—Emphasizes Need of World Court.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Geneva, Sept. 4.—Advising Europe to set her house in order, then America will return to European councils, Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of England, addressing the League of Nations assembly today appealed for the principle of arbitration and condemned pacts and alliances of mutual assistance as breeders of war.

MacDonald suggested that the League prepare for an international arms conference to be held in Europe, all nations participating. He declared that England would stand by the League covenants and emphasized the necessity of a World Court.

"Chief danger facing the League is that security may be regarded merely as a military problem based upon predominant force," he warned.

MacDonald expressed hope that Germany would be admitted to membership without reservations at the present session.

He said the League idea was not attractive to Russia because Russians believe in revolution instead of evolution.

MacDonald intimated that guilt for the war could not be fully established until future historians studied the whole question when rumors engendered by the conflict had died out.

He pleaded for arbitration, saying he could see nothing else to save the world peace. He declared that he would like to see the question of general disarmament taken up with Washington to obtain American cooperation.

"I hope the United States has not grown weary of well doing. I would like to take up the matter further with Washington. Land armament is a harder problem to deal with than naval armament."

"If this assembly should take up land armaments, it would surely be a failure because of insufficient preparation."

One day, not because you are going to appeal to America and not because you are going to exert pressure upon America, but because we are wise enough to make America in her own heart will be inclined to come into the league. Then she will find an honored and welcome place awaiting her.

"Our American friends, remote geographically, are blissfully and envily separated from the troubles lying at our doors."

"Europe, it must be admitted, has not offered attractive companionship during the past few years."

Here the premier was interrupted by laughter. He went on: "I never believed America would do anything else but leave us alone. We have never, so far as I know, asked assistance from America, but America has come in loyally and given all possible support."

Prince Gets Home With Milkman

Gets Home at 6 a. m. Again After Successful Stag Party Where Will Rogers, Comedian, Told Funny Stories—Sleeps Until Noon.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 4.—His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, came home with the milk man again this morning.

For the third morning in succession Edward Albert was observed making his way to the Burden estate on Long Island about 6 a. m.

Joshua S. Cosden, former Oklahoma oil millionaire, was the host of Wales' party from early last night until long after dawn. While the Prince slept today his secretary, A. F. Lascelles, reported that his master had had a most enjoyable time.

Throughout the morning all available hands at the Burden estate, where the Prince sleeps, were busy routing automobile traffic away from the wing of the house where the royal guest was catching up on his rest.

Oklahoma made a perfect score as the Prince's host last night. Will Rogers, who once punched cows in the Sooner state, diverted the Prince mightily, according to Lascelles.

"His stories were most amusing and the Prince laughed heartily," Lascelles said.

"He was quite overcome with Mr. Rogers' remark that it was the second time he had been in the presence of royalty. The first time, it seems, was when Sir Harry Lauder came in a theatre where Mr. Rogers was appearing. Sir Harry, Mr. Rogers added, came in on a pass."

Will Rogers was one of the guests at a stag party at the Piping Rock Club which Lascelles described as the most successful stag party he and the Prince had ever attended.

After leaving the Piping Rock Club the Prince's party, including Lord and Lady Mountbatten and Lord and Lady Milford Haven, motored to the Cosden estate.

The Prince planned to sleep until noon today. This afternoon he will indulge in some polo practice on one of the Long Island fields.

Czarists are believed to be encouraging the movement. Many rebels have surrendered; others are hiding in the mountains.

Prince Soumbatoff, former Georgian charge d'affaires in London, received news that the Georgian uprising is serious. It is largely a peasant movement against the Russian Bolsheviks because of famine conditions and heavy taxation.

American Legion Asks No More

State Commander Opposed to Further Compensation Since Government and State Have Paid Debts To Soldiers—Urges Increased Efforts for Membership.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Alexandria Bay, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Pointing to an increased membership in the state during the last year of more than 10,000, a large amount of public work and service to veterans, and the fact that the department is now on a sound financial basis, State Commander Edward E. Spafford in his annual report here today to the Sixth Annual Convention of the American Legion, Department of New York, said prospects for the future were bright.

Commander Spafford praised highly the work of Chairman G. Merritt Ward and the membership committee, Edward C. Bodeau, treasurer; Charles F. McWhorter, auditor and C. Royce Sawyer, chairman of the finance committee, and urged that in the next few years an undowment fund be raised for the New York department.

"The American Legion is the greatest patriotic organization in the United States," the report said, "and, therefore, it is incumbent on every member of the Legion to make himself a committee of one to go out and get new members. On this principle the membership committee in this department has been conducted and our new membership this year has increased by more than 10,000 over the total for last year."

The report reviewed in detail the fight waged for passage of both the state and national bonus measures and in concluding this part of his message, Commander Spafford said, in reference to the national measure: "For any further compensation, cash or otherwise, I am unalterably opposed. We had a just claim and the claim was acknowledged. The government said that to pay us in cash would work a hardship and they offered us their notes in the form of paid up insurance policies. We accepted them, let us stand back of our acceptance."

The report criticized conditions in the National Veterans' Bureau, most of the trouble, in the opinion of Commander Spafford, being in "the red tape" in Washington.

Attention was called to the work of the Veterans' Mountain Camp Corporation, child welfare, active support of the Boy Scouts and the hearty endorsement of Defense Day. The commander spoke feelingly of the death of former President Wilson and of sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge in the death of their son. He praised the conduct of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home by Col. J. C. F. Tillson and the fine work of Mrs. Eva M. Hay among service men who are in the state prisons.

One of the great needs of the department, the report said, was met by the establishment of the "Empire State Legionnaire," the official paper, and urged every member to subscribe.

Chinese Troops Impress Coolies to Carry Supplies to Chekiang Forces

Shanghai, Sept. 4.—The Chinese settlements adjoining Shanghai tonight were seething with excitement as bands of soldiers passed through the streets impressing coolies by the hundreds to carry up supplies to the Chekiang forces now reported advancing on a thirty mile front.

Many minor disturbances were reported and two rickshaw coolies, carrying American passengers, were bayoneted by troops when they resisted commands to drop their carriages and join the conscripted labor battalions. The Americans were unharmed.

Fighting was reported still in progress tonight on the Lihuo to Huang Lu with the Chekiang forces making slight progress. Fifty wounded reached Shanghai tonight in the first hospital train to arrive from the front.

A serious shortage of meat in this city is threatened, supplies having been cut off.

Police guards about the foreign settlement have been doubled, but no additional foreign marines have been landed.

Foreign Official Promises Protection.
Peking, Sept. 4.—Full protection of foreign lives and property at Shanghai was promised the British, French, American and Japanese legations today by a personal representative of the Chinese foreign office.

This action was a result of the written and verbal protests lodged by the four powers last Saturday who particularly feared that stray shots from a Chinese Naval attack on the Shanghai arsenal might hit foreign concessions.

The representative of foreign Minister Koo who is acting as premier, assured the foreign ministers that general Chih Shie Yuan would not fight unless first attacked by General Lu. At the time the statement was made the battle was already under way with the Kiangsu troops attempting to advance.

Railway traffic was reported tonight to be reopened as far south as Soochow.

Army Meets Two Defeats.

Kiangsu forces were attacked in the Lihuo district and are reported to have been routed.

INTERNAL HEAT OF EARTHUSABLE

Scientist Approves Suggestion of Boring a Hole Ten Miles Deep.

London.—Utilization of the internal heat of the earth as a source of power is worth undertaking as an international scientific enterprise, said E. W. Rice, Jr., honorary chairman of the board of directors of the General Electric company, at the recent meeting of the World Power conference in London.

"The source of power which we must expect from solar radiation is the power obtained from volcanic regions through holes bored into the earth, as has already been successfully developed in Italy," Mr. Rice said. "Another possibility exists in the interesting and important suggestion made by Sir Charles Parsons in 1904, and again in 1919, of boring a great hole ten or twelve miles deep in some convenient and suitable place, to utilize the internal heat of the earth. This suggestion should not be allowed to lie fallow.

Cost Less Than Battleship. "I heartily agree with Sir Charles in his statement that the cost of such an experiment is trivial compared with the value of the possible information which might be gained by the investigation into this unexplored region of the earth. The cost would be much less than that of a single battleship. "If only the people and their representatives had the faith and vision of science the value of such an idea would have been put to practical use long ago. It is a big idea, worthy of a nation's enthusiastic support; in fact, it is worth undertaking as an international scientific enterprise—a suitable subject for co-operative work between friendly nations."

To use the internal heat of the earth for the production of power was only one of the suggestions offered by Mr. Rice in his talk on "New Fields of Research for Power Development." Mentioning the possibility of direct conversion of solar energy, the speaker suggested that the photoelectric process may contain the germ. The most promising solution, he considered, seems to be through storage in growing vegetation.

Storage Battery Advances Little. Direct use of solar energy requires storage of the converted power. This emphasizes the fact that the storage battery, the only means for this, has advanced but little with the passing years. This is a problem for the chemist. Despite the remarkable efficiency of the modern dynamo, and the great advances which have been accomplished with the turbine, there are still many ways in which they can be further improved. Better use of materials or the discovery of better materials to reduce weight and cost are possibilities in the case of the dynamo. The use of mercury vapor, as carried on in the Emmet process, has greatly increased turbine efficiency, but mercury has its limitations and research should be continued for the discovery of another fluid which can be used similarly.

Study of overhead transmission should be continued along the lines which have yielded such a harvest—study of the limits of electric pressure, of corona losses, insulators, size and type of conductors, etc., Mr. Rice continued. High voltage transmission should also be investigated thoroughly, since at no distant time remotely situated water power must be utilized—the use of direct current, and the vacuum tube, command attention in this field.

More research and experimental work in connection with transmission of high voltages in underground cables is also imperative, since it is apparent that present design and manufacturing methods are not sufficiently advanced to produce 100,000-volt cable in commercial quantities at practical prices.

Croatian Peasant Girls Wear Dowries on Clothes

Zagreb, Croatia.—Village maidens in Croatia now carry their dowries in the shape of trimming sewn on the bodice. Instead of jingling necklaces and buttons of gold coin, as of old. The new fashion results from the governmental ban on the possession of gold coin, which are no longer legal even as a medium of purchase. Adapting themselves to the new order, the girls now sew bank notes of as large denominations as they can afford in decorative lines on either side of the bodice as a token of their rating in the matrimonial market. The man who marries a girl displaying half a million dinars, for instance, knows that she brings him a dowry of about $10,000, and not a few young women display that much on feast days.

Bullet-Proof Heads

Ola, Ark.—Heads of negroes in this section of Arkansas are bullet proof, according to persons who have heard of "attracts" at crap games here recently. In one of them a negro shot another in the head with a small caliber revolver, but it merely bounced off the same as if it had hit a rock. Later in another game a revolver duel took place and another colored "gamester" was killed in the head. The bullet ran a furrow along his scalp, but did not pierce the skull, and the negro is ready for another game.

Honey a Vegetable

The Department of Agriculture says that honey is a vegetable product. The fluid is taken directly from the flowers. The bee adds enzymes which have an effect upon the sugar content of the honey, but the final result is still a vegetable.

MOUNT TREMPER.

Mount Tremper, Sept. 4.—C. F. Zinkgraf's Brookside House at Mount Tremper was the scene of happiness on Saturday, August 30, when a prize dance was given in honor of the closing of vacation days for many of the guests. White and Black Paris Favorite

Combination Is Regarded as Most Effective for Mature Women.

White and black, in contradistinction to black and white, has come to the fore as the dominating color combination at the Bois, according to a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. It is a particularly effective alliance for the mature woman, who is gradually asserting her importance in Paris fashions.

Among the loveliest white and black effects are the printed crepes, chiffons and foulards, which enter largely into mid-summer dresses and robes. White alpaca crepe marocain, crepe de chine, crepe romain and crepe georgette, cleverly combined with black satin or black taffeta form many of the new models. Frequently there is an accompanying wrap in the form of a long, straight, wrap-around coat. This is usually in the same black material as that used in the dress. Again the white and black effect is obtained by having the dress entirely in white and the long coat in black.

The long, straight, tunic dress is very much in vogue, and is particularly well adapted for the combination of two materials and two colors. A feature, peculiar to models of this type, is the slash or slit which appears in some form, either in the tunic or the narrow underskirt. If the tunic is extremely long, it is sometimes slashed at one side to permit freedom in walking, or it may show plaited inserts

Dainty and Soft Frock of Powder Blue Crepe

This rich frock is constructed of powder blue crepe roma, having an apron front of lattice of the same material, finished with rose medallions.

Tailored Garters Latest

—Match Tailored Suits

The loss of a garter once provoked the famous saying, "Honi soit qui mal y pense." If you were to lose one of the newest garters a gallant remark would not be needed to save the situation. Simply because the newest ones are not the frilly, personal looking affairs we have been used to seeing. They might be mistaken for a black wrist band or a fob.

When tailored suits came along, women decided that tailored garters were necessary to complete the severity of the outfit, so they evolved what is nothing more than a strap of elastic, much like the strap you used to hitch around your school books. Eyelets are stitched into the length of elastic and a small nickel buckle is used to fasten the garter in place.

When the "pep" goes out of the elastic, you merely pull the buckle to the next eyelet and your garters are good for a further stretch.

Women Demand Comfort When They Buy Shoes

The woman of 1924 is more than ever considering her physical comfort in the choice of her wardrobe, and particularly with regard to her shoes. They must conform to the lines of the foot, hug the instep and bend without breaking. Accordingly, she chooses shoes of kid leather, which, in addition to their flexibility and softness, are also more porous, allowing the foot to breathe. Thus, it is possible for the wearer to dance all evening without creating the burning, perspiring condition of the feet which so frequently results in painful corns and permanent callouses.

So, from the shops to their rack in the closet and thence to the ballroom floor, kid shoes and their way with increasing popularity, and both the modern woman and the modern man enjoy their combined advantages of style and comfort.—Kansas City Star.

Slave Bracelet Is Also Called the Love Link

The slave bracelet, the flexible bracelet of long open links, is also called the love link. It may be had in gold, sterling silver and platinum finish. A variation of these bracelets has large single stones in square flat settings and inch links of enamel or emblem to show distinction. Galath bracelets have new interest when mounted with filigree and clasped with a stone. A unique set of four bangles alternates jet with old gold.

Although 60-inch chains are very smart a new length necklace called the collarette has made its appearance. Slightly longer than the choker, it outlines the neck more gracefully and drops a fringe or pendant. When the drop ornament is a medallion some houses term them amulets. Amulets have been worn since ancient times as a protecting power which will ward off evil.

Wool, Gossamer Weight Stockings, Latest Mode

Since silk stockings are taboo with sports dress, resourceful designers have brought out entirely new hosiery of different styles in light wool and cotton. It is a long time since any but old-fashioned plain black or white stockings have been seen. Aside from silk there have been only lisle—so harsh to some tender feet—or the heavy-ribbed woolen articles that have been affected by the athletic girl, who grained and bore them. The new sorts are of wool, gossamer weight, in fanciful woven patterns, ribbed or with drop-stitch stripes; and of cotton, with a surface appearance like wool, and in a variety of colors and styles.

Nothing Revolutionary

Predicted at Longchamp

It is true that nothing very revolutionary is predicted at Longchamp, says a Paris fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. But the mode is no longer subject to overnight uprisings—it has become a gradual evolution; sometimes too slow for the more restless spirits of fashion, but always achieving a certain progress. And the acute observer can derive much satisfaction from the embryonic tendencies which characterize the Bois de Boulogne styles. The simple silhouette is assuming so many disguises and adding so many frilly details that the term is rapidly becoming a misnomer. Straight lines are still straight, but their even tenor is more and more becoming subject to interruptions. The much reiterated jeune fille mode is being relegated to its proper sphere. Dignity, grace and recognition of the charm of maturity are again becoming influences in the domains of Dame Fashion, and the lady will profit immeasurably thereby.

ENGLAND IN SECOND PLACE.

In his rambling essay in the September Atlantic Monthly, A. Edward Newton finds some interesting things to say about the new feeling toward America in England since the former began to forge ahead in wealth and influence, and particularly after the war, during which "we became enormously rich and the English ghastly poor." Mr. Newton loves England and frequently writes about London and its people. He says that forty years ago his one ambition was to make money enough to retire and spend his declining years in England, but now he "would not accept as a gift" any mansion on the Thames or elsewhere if he had to make it his home. "I am not wanted there," he says; "few Americans are." After being the richest and most powerful people on earth for three centuries, it is acutely painful for the English to yield the primacy to another nation, and this inevitably affects their attitude toward the people of that nation, particularly the newly enriched and socially aggressive.

We read that Americans "became disliked" after they occupied some of the finest mansions in London and some of the most historic castles in the country, "buying up the rare art treasures right and left. Some of these Americans were 'loud, vulgar and ignorant as well as rich; more and more they came, and more and more they flaunted their wealth.' What the English do not want is to have Americans 'come and sit down on them, taking up their town and country houses and trying to get into' their most exclusive clubs. The English 'envy us our wealth and our aloofness from the troubles of Europe, and envy is not a good foundation for friendship.' Mr. Newton heard one Englishman say that even in sport Americans win by 'that low cunning which is so characteristic.' But the English read and are much pleased with an American book, the Letters of Walter H. Page, 'as well they may, for they are a trouble to the greatness of England.' Mr. Newton could have added that nothing is more tragic than real greatness on the verge of decline, and no generous-minded American, remembering all that England has done for the world, can fail of either sympathy or regret.

TWO MILLION LAWS.

Much has been said in recent years about the multiplicity of our laws and the continuing production of enactments. State and Federal, in a manner suggesting an ever more rapidly revolving grist mill, but perhaps nothing quite so staggering has appeared as the following in the Southern Lumberman: "There are 2,000,000 laws in force in the United States. If a man could familiarize himself with 10 of them each day he would be qualified to act as a law-abiding citizen in the short space of 6,000 years."

Unquestionably we have too many laws particularly those of a summary character which tend to restrict individual freedom and originate in the minds of half-baked reformers running up and down the country clamoring to legislate supposed virtue into the people. But the Southern Lumberman's statement is an extravagance. It is not necessary for the average citizen to take heed of more than a small proportion of our "laws." Vast numbers of them are little more than administrative decisions which do not directly concern him. The great majority of legislative acts are decisions of a business nature. Congress and the state legislatures are conducting an enormous business as well as attempting to check crime and regulate the lives and conduct of the people.

It is reported from Chicago that Chief Justice John R. Caverly has gone or is to go into retirement for twelve days. "In a private home within a hundred miles of Chicago," reads the press dispatch, "the jurist, occupying the dual role of Judge and jury (in the Leopold-Loeb murder case), will weigh the evidence and prepare a written opinion, explaining the reasons for the sentence he will pronounce." Twelve days of rest for the public but none

The development of agencies whereby war can be made more terrible and devastating than ever seems to know no end. It is stated that there are now at least a thousand poison gases available compared with only about thirty that came into existence during the World War.

MEN AND INSECTS.

A scientist stated recently that man would be wiped off the earth by insects. That they would increase in numbers to such an extent that he would not be able to cope with them.

That insects, some of them so small that powerful microscopes are necessary to reveal them, inhabit almost every form of life, is, of course, well known.

But gradually diseases of animals and plants are being cleared from the earth, and man will likely always be master.

The number of insects you have in you all the time is enormous. The insects that are found in pneumonia, grip, diphtheria, are in many people all the time, but such is their resisting power to them that only a few are attacked by these ailments.

Further, physicians have a lot to learn yet about these parasites, as they are called, as many of them are thought to be harmless, or even of help to the different processes of the body.

Three youngsters will be exposed to scarlet fever, by playing with the youngster who has broken quarantine, or who is a "carrier."

One of these youngsters has a light attack of scarlet fever, another a severe attack, while the third escapes it altogether.

Why these differences in the way these youngsters handle the trouble?

Research men have found that normal fresh blood will destroy these little parasites.

If the blood is kept for some time this power grows less.

What does this mean? That the power to resist or make these little insects harmless, rests with the little bodies called corpuscles of the blood.

Years ago it was thought that the white corpuscles simply killed the insects or germs.

Now it is believed that they do not kill them but render them harmless to the body.

Very recently a research worker of standing gave it as his opinion that the white corpuscles manufactured a gas which rendered the germs powerless to act.

You see these little germs or animals are not only poisonous of themselves, but manufacture poisons that have to be rendered harmless to the body, by the blood.

What is the point? Well, your blood and tissues may be able to take care of these insects better, or not as well as the blood and tissues of other people.

Why some people are stricken and others not, cannot always be explained.

However, you know that with some of these ailments one attack prevents any further attack in your body. With other ailments this is not true.

What can you do about it? Simply keep your blood in good fighting trim by good food, fresh air and outdoor exercise.

You can't do anything more than that. Why do less?

MILK AS FOOD

To Be Chief Feature of State Fair Dairy Exhibit.

The tremendous volume of milk produced in New York and the value of milk and dairy products as food will be predominant features of a mammoth dairy exhibit under the joint direction of the State Experiment Station, the College of Agriculture, and the Department of Farms and Markets at the State Fair at Syracuse next week. Mechanical devices, moving pictures, chickens fed diets with and without milk, and other methods will be employed to carry the story of the health-giving qualities of milk.

A miniature Niagara Falls which will have a flow of fluid milk passing over the brink at the rate of 250 gallons per minute will be the chief feature of the display. Flowing from a pool at the foot of the Falls, the milk will pass through miniature factories and will come out on the other side in the shape of finished dairy products, such as butter, cheese, condensed milk, etc.

Grouped about the Falls will be demonstrations by food specialists from the College of Agriculture on the preparation of dairy dishes and on the use of dairy products for food. Other features of the exhibit will illustrate the advantages of milk and milk dishes in the diet.

Near the Falls will be a free motion picture display in operation throughout the day. Many pictures showing the food value of milk will be exhibited.

Sales Grow With Advertising

Department Stores Sales Found to Grow With Increased Advertising. Under Analysis of 1923 Expense Accounts.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 4.—Analysis of the operating expenses in department stores for 1923, totaling sales of over one billion dollars, has just been completed and published in Bulletin No. 44 by the Bureau of Business Research of the Harvard Business School. This is the third report published by means of the funds furnished by the National Retail Dry Goods Association, with the active cooperation of the Controllers' Congress and the National Garment Retailers' Association. According to the bureau's wide spread study, sales increase with advertising, and the larger stores are beginning to reduce expenses by improved management methods. Attention is called to an increasing tendency in some quarters to shift the emphasis in management from the buying to the selling side.

The Bulletin says: "The bureau's study of the cost of doing business in department stores in 1923, the results of which are presented in this bulletin, marks the widest scope attained by this survey in any year since its inception in 1920. In all, profit and loss statements for the fiscal year 1923 were received from 450 department and specialty stores with aggregate sales in that year amounting to $1,059,514,000. Therefore, the results of this survey may be regarded as thoroughly representative of conditions in the department store business for that period."

The popular opinion that the department stores make large profits is contradicted by the figures assembled by the bureau. These figures are authentic and confidential, the bureau having established its reputation through fourteen years' experience of never betraying a trust. The figures are accepted throughout the trade as being responsible. The Bulletin says: "In the department store trade, 1923 was a year of encouraging results. A substantial increase was registered in the volume of net sales as compared with 1922; the total expense ratio, on the average, was lowered slightly, and the average ratio of net profit somewhat increased."

Stores with net sales of less than $1,000,000 spent 2 per cent on advertising with a net profit of 1.9 cents for every dollar of sales, and turned over their stock 24 times in twelve months. Stores doing over $1,000,000 net sales spent 2.9 per cent in advertising and made a net profit of 3.6 cents for every dollar of sales and turned over their stock 3.7 times per year. Graphic charts published in the bulletin show that for every dollar of sales in 403 department stores reporting net sales of less than $1,000,000 for 1923, total merchandise cost was 71.8 per cent; total expense of doing business 26.3 per cent; and net profit 1.9 per cent. In 163 department stores reporting net sales of $1,000,000 and over for 1923, total merchandise cost was 63 per cent; total expense 28.4 per cent and net profit 3.6 per cent. Departmentized specialties, having an aggregate sales of $96,924,000 in 1923 were separately analyzed, showing that a net merchandise cost of 67.1 per cent; total expense 29.6 per cent and net profit per dollar of sales 3.3 per cent.

In closing the bulletin says: "One of the most important factors in the present situation is the widespread interest in the problem of expense reduction. In this connection, attention has been drawn particularly to the relation of sales volume to expense ratios. In keeping with the data secured by the bureau for previous years in this and other retail trades, the figures given in this bulletin show that the increase in expense was more than in proportion to the increase in sales for department stores with sales ranging from $250,000 to $3,999,000. Furthermore, the average cost of doing business for the entire group of firms with sales of $1,000,000 and over was higher than the average cost of doing business for the entire group of firms with sales below $1,000,000. The evidence supports the previous conclusion of the bureau that a mere increase in the volume of sales does not result in economy of operation."

"The theory commonly accepted among business men assumes that as sales volume increases, expenses do not increase in proportion. The evidence so far obtained, however, point to the conclusion that this theory is fallacious. This does not mean, however, that it is impossible for a department store with large sales volume to maintain a relatively low expense ratio, but merely that under ordinary conditions, including the human factor, the tendency, by and large, is for expenses to increase at a relatively more rapid rate than sales, beyond a certain point in the volume scale. There is no implication, however, that the growth of large scale merchandising should be checked. Naturally, there are always exceptions to the general tendency. In 1923, for instance, as shown by the figures in Table 33, page 30, the department stores with sales between $4,000,000 and $9,999,000, and also those with sales of $10,000,000 and over, had, on the average, slightly lower ratios for total expense than the department stores with sales between $1,000,000 and $3,999,000. To cite a specific instance, furthermore, one large department store reporting to the bureau had net sales of approximately $30,000,000 and total expense amounting to only 25.4%.

"A conclusion that may be drawn from the figures in this bulletin is that the results of the attention now being given to expense problems are beginning to appear, especially among the larger department stores. Although the standardization program of the Controllers' Congress has progressed slowly, it has served well in drawing attention to expense problems, and improvement already is to be noted.

"Other signs of the times are not lacking: There are indications that experiments are being tried with a view to securing economies in operation and developing more effective merchandising policies.

"There is likewise discernible in some quarters an increasing tendency to shift the emphasis in management from the buying to the selling side. Evidence of this tendency are the increasing use of the retail method of inventory and the various attempts to secure better coordination of buying and selling, in some instances involving the development of a new type of merchandising executive, the sales manager.

"In view of all the evidence, the bureau is confident that department stores will find means, of lowering the cost of their services and at the same time of maintaining or increasing their ratio of net profit. Meanwhile other problems such as those presented by high returns and excessive mark-downs will be met by a better understanding and a more intelligent interpretation of consumers' buying motives."

Don't Park Car on Public Highway

American Automobile Association Calls Attention to Dangerous Practice and Offers Several Suggestions to Motorists.

Parking automobiles on public highways is strongly condemned as a public nuisance by the American Automobile Association, according to a bulletin just released through the organization's touring and transportation board at Washington, D. C.

The basis for the A. A. A. action is numerous complaints received from motorists who have been both inconvenienced and endangered by persons who park their cars on the main highways when they could just as well drive on to a cross road or open space, it is stated.

In its bulletin the board states that it does not sympathize with the motorist who thinks he would forfeit a privilege if forbidden to park on highways because it contends that he is not safe in parking where there is high speed traffic and that he really would benefit by being compelled to park in safer places.

Thomas P. Henry, president of the A. A. A., says that the number of accidents resulting from parking cars on heavily traveled highways offsets any possible advantages and that if the motorist does not appreciate the importance of parking safely, legislation must step in to produce desired results.

"It is hoped that this appeal to the motorist, however, will obviate the necessity for adding another law to the already overcrowded statutes," Mr. Henry explains. "If each motorist would act upon the recommendations of the A. A. A. board the highways would be safer for all who use them and the nuisance of unsafe parking would be minimized."

The following suggestions have been offered by the A. A. A. board:

"Do not seek main highways for picnic purposes. Use the secondary roads where there are plenty of opportunities for parking off the road."

"In event of puncture try to get the car as far off the travelled portion of the road as possible before changing the tire, and in no case stop on a curve or near the top of a hill."

"Never stop opposite a car that has parked along the road. If you want to ask your way stop your car at least one hundred and fifty feet beyond and walk back to inquire."

"You are not safe sitting in your car while it is parked on a highway. Furthermore you are a source of danger to those who are obliged to turn out to pass you."

"If you turn into a blind driveway to park have the back of the car to the main road. When your car is facing the road motorists may think you are just driving into the road. They may make a sudden stop before discovering that your car is not in motion, and cars following them may be thrown into a series of rear-end collisions."

"Parking a car at night on a main highway is doubly dangerous. You never know what minute the tall light may burn out."

CLAIM SHE SOLD POLIOMYELITIS CURE

Recently, according to the Oswego Times, a woman representative of a firm in Ossining was brought before City Recorder Gill, of Oswego, charged with peddling without a license, and more specifically, with selling an antiseptic powder which she is said to have represented to be a preventive and cure for poliomyelitis. Harry Hoey, City Health Inspector, who made the complaint, said she was advising mothers to bathe their children in a solution of the powder twice a day to prevent polio.

Judge Gill held the case open and allowed the woman to go after giving her some good advice, in the course of which he remarked that if she had a cure for polio, instead of having to sell her powder on the streets of Oswego she "should be with the Rockefeller Foundation or in the Hall of Fame."

DR. G. F. WARREN STUDIES DANISH DAIRY METHODS.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Dr. George F. Warren, head of the farm management department at the State College of Agriculture here, has gone to Europe at the request of the United States tariff commission to look into the costs and methods of Danish butter production.

Much Danish butter has been imported into this country in competition with the domestic product, and Dr. Warren expects to report on any distinctive practices of Danish dairymen and of Danish agriculture in general which may be comparable to our own.

Dr. Warren will discuss with Prof. O. H. Larsen at the Agricultural College at Copenhagen, the scope of the instruction which Prof. Larsen will give in connection with his work in the new agricultural business courses next spring. Prof. Larsen, who is head of the department of agricultural economics and farm management at Copenhagen, will teach during the spring and summer terms of 1925 under the auspices of the newly organized International Education Board.

This new business course will give an opportunity to residents of New York state who wish to study the management of rural cooperative organizations and the conduct of agricultural business in general.

POWDER AND PAINT.

Women Have Become Expert in Using Them—Only Results Show.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Chicago, Sept. 4.—Powder and rouge have emerged from their disgraceful obscurity, passed the phase of blatant gaudiness, and come into their own as an essential and respectable aid to beauty, according to Miss Emily Lloyd, in a lecture here on beauty.

"Face powders never have been more popular," Miss Lloyd said, "than at the present day when every woman serenely powders her nose in public and by this token only, admits to the world that her velvety skin owes anything to artificial aid. Women of today are make-up artists. Their powder and paint does not show. One sees only the results."

"One reason from this artistry is that women have learned much from beauty experts. Another is that they can now get powder in any shade to suit the complexion, from alabino coloring to the darkest brunette. A few seasons ago a ghastly creation came into the shops and onto the dressing table, that was known as mauve powder. It was exceedingly popular with women who cultivate the extreme in style, until one by one each saw herself as others saw her. Under artificial light, especially, she looked like nothing so much as a caricature of a clown."

The train service will soon change. The Stony Clove will again face its own "loneliness" for the fall and winter schedule—one train a day and about all of the stations closed.

Mr. Rat straightened his whiskers and decided he would take a run.

Mr. Rat Straightened His Whiskers.

"It's a nice evening for a run," he said. "I shall go through these walls here and then get through the little hole I have made and get into the people's kitchen."

"It's quite true they never invited me to come and pay them a visit."

"That is why I shall go when I think they have left the kitchen."

"If a rat waited for an invitation from people a rat would be kept waiting a long time."

"I have often thought to my rat self that it is rude of them not to send me invitations."

"Sometimes I've heard one of the children speaking to some little friend, and they have said:

"Wait and we shall ask Mother if you can stay for supper."

"And they have asked their mother and the mother has said yes and the little friend has stayed for supper."

"But they never say:

"Mamma, may we have Mr. Rat here this evening and offer him some good food?"

"No, they never say that."

"Oh, well, I don't let it hurt my feelings. As I've said before, and as my family have all said, if we let our feelings be hurt we wouldn't have much of a time."

"For no one says anything particularly nice about us. We aren't very clean, or anything like that, and we do pick up the food around and make a great deal of noise and trouble."

"Still, there are no Rat schools and rats never learn any better—their mothers don't bother to teach them manners, either."

"I do believe I will have something to eat tonight. I think I smelled nice Johnny-cake a-coming."

"I shall start out very soon."

So once more Mr. Rat straightened his whiskers and decided he would wait no longer.

He ran along the walls, or rather between the walls, and the family said:

"Oh, dear, there are rats around. Isn't that dreadful?"

Mr. Rat kept quiet for a while now, but pretty soon he hurried along again. He passed over some wires which had been put in the house at one time and which now were not in use.

As he passed them and hurried over them it almost sounded as though Mr. Rat were playing a wire solo on his own particular kind of violin.

Mr. Rat went through the hole and into the kitchen. No one was around. Ah, he saw the Johnny-cake. It was on the stove, on the upper oven, and the stove was quite cool. It was a gas stove, though Mr. Rat didn't know one from another.

The Johnny-cake was still a little warm, but not too hot to eat.

Mr. Rat jumped and ran right over to the cake, and then he had a feast.

If he had been told that Johnny-cake had been made as a special treat for the next day it would have made no difference to him.

But then he heard people coming. Oh, well, he had had a fine feast. In hurrying away he turned on one of the gas jets of the stove with his foot.

The people came into the kitchen. Mr. Rat had just escaped into his hole.

"Oh, look at the Johnny-cake!" they cried. "It has been partly eaten and nibbled at, and it is all broken up into crumbs and looks dreadful, and it did look so good!"

They were very sad about it. Then some one smelt gas.

"It can't be," the mother of the family said, "for I never forget to turn out the gas when I'm through cooking I'm very, very careful about that."

But they looked, and one of the gas jets had been turned on and the gas was escaping, and it was lucky they had seen it in time. Then they knew that the rat was the guilty one. And they laid a trap for the rat, for he was both a thief and a dangerous character.

Mr. Rat Went Through the Hole.

Mr. Rat went through the hole and into the kitchen. No one was around. Ah, he saw the Johnny-cake. It was on the stove, on the upper oven, and the stove was quite cool. It was a gas stove, though Mr. Rat didn't know one from another.

The Johnny-cake was still a little warm, but not too hot to eat.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

A good cake is always in season and the housewife with a cake box well-stocked is always ready for company.

Almond and Chocolate Potato Cake.—Cream one cupful of butter and beat in one cupful of sugar and one cupful of sweet chocolate grated. Add the beaten yolks of four eggs, one cupful of fine-chopped almonds, two cupfuls of rice potatoes, two cupfuls of flour sifted with one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-half teaspoonful of cloves. Add the flour gradually and alternately with milk enough to make a thick batter, three-fourths of a cupful, and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs. Bake in a large tube pan which has been greased and floured.

Cheese Cake Pie.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter and work in one cupful of sugar with two well-beaten eggs. Add alternately one cupful of liquid, either milk or water, and two and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Into a deep cylinder-shaped pan put one-half of this batter, making a depression in the center and fill this, spreading all over the batter, with the following: Thicken one cupful of milk with one tablespoonful of cornstarch, stir over the fire until it is well cooked, add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of fresh cream cheese, one beaten egg, one-half cupful of sugar and a flavoring of lemon extract or rich strawberry preserves. Cover with the remaining half of the batter and bake in a slow oven thirty-five to fifty minutes.

Sardine Sandwiches.—Remove the skin from the sardines; mash; add a little mustard, a dash of onion juice and a bit of mayonnaise. Spread on toasted oatmeal crackers, after buttering them lightly.

Slender Women Should Wear

Materials of Criss-Cross Design

By MILDRED BRYAN

Lecturer in costume design at DeWitt-Reitzel Studio of Chicago, Special designer for various Chicago society women.

Plaid materials are always kind to the slender sister. The criss-cross lines break up the path the eye travels and seem to make her seem shorter and heavier than she appears in a plain material. The best style for the slender girl is to arrange the plaid material so that the lines run in a criss-cross fashion, as shown in the picture.

SHIPWRECKED CREW PICKED UP FROM LIFE RAFT.

CREW OF SAMUEL W. HATHAWAY. INTL.

No words could tell the story of the six shipwrecked members of the crew of the four-masted schooner Samuel W. Hathaway with the vivid eloquence of this photograph, taken 350 miles out in the Atlantic, by one of the boat's crew of the liner Southern Cross, the rescue ship. The picture was snapped as the men staggered to their feet on the tiny, flimsy raft that had been their home for five days after a typhoon sunk their vessel off Cape Hatteras. A moment later they collapsed. They had eaten raw fish and were constantly menaced by sharks. Three other men who occupied another raft are believed to have perished. Their own raft was the roof of the cabin of the schooner.

CREDIT AND COOP MEN TALK OVER PROBLEMS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 4—The second state banker-farmer conference was held here August 25 and 26, with an attendance of 35, and problems of agricultural financing were discussed from the angles of the banker, the farmer, and the farmer cooperative organization. All these three groups were represented at the conference. On Monday, August 25, representatives of the cooperatives talked before the group. D. H. Oils, director of the Agricultural Commission of The American Bankers' Association, outlined the results of the previous year's conference, and the work of the season opened with a talk by C. S. Wilson, secretary of the Western New York fruit growers, who discussed some of the individual problems of that and similar organizations with long and short term credit.

Judge John D. Miller of the Dairymen's League spoke next. F. E. Robertson of the wool growers followed him, discussing the wool pool, and H. E. Babcock told of the financial workings of the G. L. F. At a dinner that evening everyone took part in the round table discussion led by C. E. Freeman, president of the New York State Bankers' Association. At this time also E. H. Thomson, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Springfield, told of the functions of that institution and its accomplishments.

On the following day the bankers present discussed the credit situation from their standpoint; among the speakers were E. T. Eshelman of the City Bank Trust Company, Syracuse, Henry Burden of the Cazenovia National Bank, and M. E. Cole of the Farmers' Fund Rochester.

WHAT A WOMAN SHOULD DO WHEN SHE IS WEAK AND NERVOUS

Thousands of Women Have Surprisingly Increased Their Strength, Energy, and Endurance in Two Weeks' Time by This Simple Experiment.

On account of the terrible weakness, nervousness and alarming symptoms, which are often produced by iron starvation of the blood, frequently the sufferer never suspects the real cause of her trouble but thinks she has some other ailment. As a result of iron starvation you may suffer from headaches, dizziness, shortness of breath or heart palpitation, pulsing at the back, loss of memory, weak, listless, melancholy or the "blues," disturbed digestion, loss of appetite, sleepless nights, night sweats and so on. In such cases do not wait until you go all to pieces, and collapse in a state of nervous prostration but eat more spinach and green vegetables and take organic iron like Nuxated Iron which is a safe and reliable remedy. It is just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron, while organic iron like Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, fruits and apples. Beware of substitutes. Look for the name "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. L. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturer if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. For sale by all druggists.

Citizens' Help Is Encouraging

But Local Military Organization Is Not Yet at Peace Time Strength and Citizens Are Invited to Acquaint Themselves With Advantages of National Guard Training.

Captain E. L. Cashin, commanding officer of Battery A, 156th Field Artillery, is much pleased with the way the citizens of this city respond and join in and help recruit the battery up to full strength. Through the untiring efforts of the officers and men of the battery, combined with the help of the citizens of Kingston, it has been made possible to secure quite a number of men to join the battery. The efforts of the combined quorum has not as yet been sufficient to bring the total strength of the battery where it rightfully belongs and all cooperation possible is needed in this work.

Business concerns such as the General Electric Company, the Western Electric Company, the Tiffany & Company, the New York Telephone Company and many others are doing their share to the utmost in encouraging enlistments in the National Guard and allowing employees every assistance in performing such military service, and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for the past years and at the present time, has been aiding the National Guard by encouraging their employees to take advantage of such service and training. For many years, several companies of the 156th Infantry, N. Y. N. G., which is the old 69th Infantry, have been recruited from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The War Department has completed the gigantic task of tabulating and consigning to each state in the union its quota of the million or more trophies captured by the American Army in the World War. The relics range from empty rifle shells to large howitzers and trench mortars, and are to be apportioned to each state according to the number of men in the service from that state. In cases where there are only a limited number of one type of the relics, those states which contributed the greatest number of men to the service will receive them. The New York National Guard has made it possible that New York state will receive a very large share of the old war relics and trophies that are now in Washington, D. C., waiting to be distributed to the different states.

The National Guard of the United States and more particularly of New York state, is directly dependent on the good will and interest of the citizens of this commonwealth. It is the only kind of a standing army that can be successfully maintained for the defense of the nation.

Battery A holds its weekly drills on Monday nights, unless otherwise stated. As there are quite a number of residents of Kingston who are interested in the local unit, it has been made possible that any visitors, interested or curious, will be welcome at the armory on any drill night. Captain Cashin or any of the officers or men of the battery will be glad to explain all the advantages to anyone who may desire to know the full benefits of belonging to the National Guard and the local battery. Anyone who wishes to learn the full particulars of the local battery will find the best opportunity to learn by visiting the armory on a drill night and inquiring. The battery now is progressing nicely but there is always room for improvement. More men are needed to fill the ranks of the battery and bring the organization to the full maximum peace strength of one hundred and fourteen men. Battery A has always been a credit to the city and has always been willing to cooperate in any way possible. It is expected that the residents of the city will aid the battery in their fight to be on the top and make the 156th Field Artillery the best regiment in the state.

Local Capital For Electrical Power Development

This Company operating in accordance with the State laws, does not make a profit in the ordinary sense of the word. Its rates for gas and electric service are based on earnings sufficient to pay its operating expenses; interest on its bonds and a reasonable return on the capital invested by its stockholders.

The growth of the business is such that large sums are required to finance additional generating and distributing equipment and for other facilities to properly meet the ever increasing demands for service.

The capital required for this purpose has been and is being furnished by the company's customers and by the residents in the territory served. In this way, many thousands of people in the Valley now own securities of the companies comprising the Central Hudson System. It is, in effect, a customer-owned enterprise. The money paid out by it for interest on bonds and for dividends on the stock, is returned to the community for local benefit.

You have the opportunity to subscribe for the 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock we are now offering. Shares may be had for cash, or on our "thrift" plan of a small payment down and the balance over a period of months. Especially attractive is this Preferred Stock to investors seeking a somewhat higher return and at the same time desiring safety of principal.

Ancient Pennies

A silver penny struck during the reign of Ethelred II., the Unready, 979-1016, at Sudbury, England, where at that time there was a royal mint, has been presented to the borough by the town clerk. It passed into his possession several years ago, and he has ascertained on high authority that it is genuine. The coin has been deposited in the borough technical institute.

Money in Unsealed Packets

The implicit faith of the public in the honesty of the post office is shown by the huge sums of money sent through this channel. One ordinary business letter, not stuck down, was found recently to contain a negotiable check for half a million. Frequently banks, and even private people, send unsealed letters with checks running into four and even five figures.

"HERE I've been tucked away in the attic ever since they put a Thatcher Round Boiler in the cellar. In the old days they used to depend upon me pretty regularly to help out, when the mercury kept close company with the thermometer bulb. But I have not shown myself since the Thatcher arrived. Take it from me, there's no need for extra heating equipment with a Thatcher Round Boiler on the job."

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The first foreign missionary society of America was organized 114 years ago today, under the title of The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, a title it still bears. The board now maintains headquarters in Boston, with branches in New York, Chicago and San Francisco. During its more than a century of existence it has sent out over 3,000 missionaries, and at present maintains over 700 in the field. Six hundred churches have been organized by those workers, with a total membership from the first of about 200,000. Nearly 50 million dollars have been collected and disbursed by the board. At present it maintains missions in Mexico, Philippines, China, Ceylon, India, Africa, Turkey, Austria and Spain.

ANNE CARLISLE.

Anne Carlisle was a very ingenious lady who lived in the reign of Charles the Second. Walpole asserted that she obtained great credit by her copies of the works of eminent Italian masters, as well as by her portraits taken from life. She died about the year 1680.

FIRST CONTINENTAL CONGRESS.

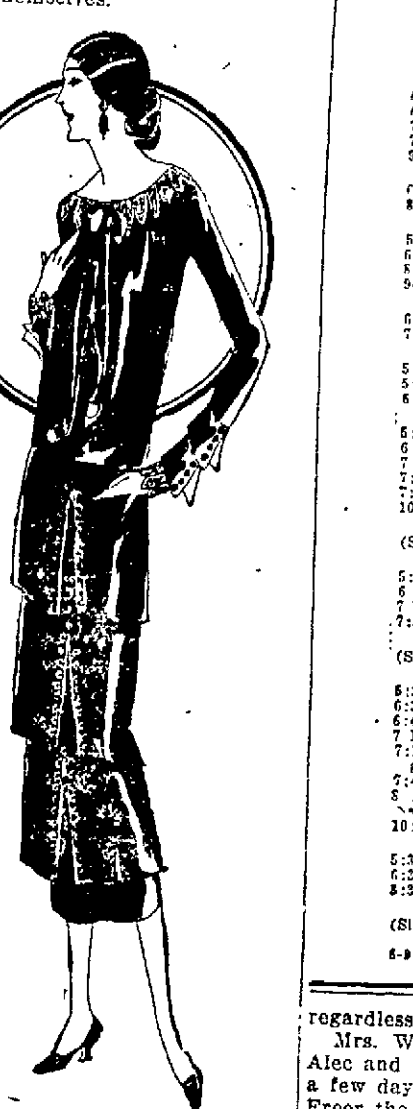

The first Continental Congress met just 150 years ago today in Carpenter's Hall, Philadelphia, with delegates present from all the original thirteen states of the future union, except N. C. and Georgia. On the following day the task of organizing the congress commenced, and on September seventh the congress opened with prayer. Peyton Randolph of Virginia was chosen president, and Charles Thomson secretary, the latter retaining that position to the close of the continental in 1780. Although Tom Paine and other distinguished La Fayettees of that day advocated breaking away from England, and Paine recommended a republic to be known as the United States of America, the congress was not then ready for such 'extreme' measures and advocated only Colonial self-government. This first congress, by the way, issued appeals to the people of Nova Scotia and Canada, asking that they send delegates to the assembly, but unwise reflections on Catholicism alienated the sympathies of the French Canadians, and nothing came of the appeal.

THE DRESS—WITH OR WITHOUT A COAT

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Straightline coats for fall are having general exploitation which argues, of course, for the importance of the dress. It is now an old story that the two should be related in spirit, if not by material ties in the literal sense, and in color and design, while the old trick of lining a coat with the material or color used for the dress is again being performed.

Faile silk frocks are being shown in a variety of clever models for immediate wear; one is illustrated and is especially liked for the tall woman who wishes to detract from her height. The three-tiered skirt, sashed at one side, is a clever method of doing this, and the waistline in this instance remains low, although one must not accept this as a general thing—waistlines being a law unto themselves.

Some of the foremost Americans as well as French designers are toying with the high-waisted empire idea. Instead of drawing in the line below the bust, however, the modernized empire gown hangs straight and has either a seam or maybe some trimming to suggest rather than emphasize this line. In some of the more daring ventures there are flounces and frills added to the straightline skirt, there being a tendency to trim skirts this season. For the younger set there is considerable interest in frocks which have a bolera suggestion. This is another version of a shorter waistline and one which offers excellent scope for color and fabric combinations. Those in their teens as well as those long past them, have an insatiable desire for something new in styles, and the introduction of the bolero at this time is met with enthusiasm by those who are being made ready for the school term.

CHURCH CLAMBAKE AT ACCORD SEPTEMBER 17

The annual clambake of the Rochester Reformed Church will be held at Accord this year on Wednesday, September 17th. The bake will be served on the church grounds along the Ellenville and Kingston road.
Last year at the annual bake 21,000 clams, chicken and fish were served, while quite a large number of people had to be turned away due to the fact that the provisions ran out. The church is well equipped to handle the bake as they have four large steam bakers of their own. Matthew J. Schler, a member of the consistory of the church, will superintend the bake.
There will be four bakes, opening at 4:00, 6:30, 7:00 and 8:30 p. m., standard time. Another large crowd is expected to attend the affair again this year.

and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 4.—Dullness and irregularity marked the course of the stock market today as activities continued to be dominated by the professional traders. Outside interest was lacking, buying power limited and the professional bears ready to take advantage of every opportunity to push prices lower.
Hesitancy in buying this week is laid to the door of the state elections in Maine, which are proverbially held as one of the important straws to show which way the November political winds are most apt to blow. Financial sentiment remains cheerful both as related to home and foreign developments.

Railroad stocks gave indications of resuming the forward price movement as Nickel Plate common was rushed up to 119 1/4 for a new high and a gain of 6 points over Wednesday's close; the preferred stock also touched a new high at 82 1/4. C. & O. gained more than a point at 87 1/4; Erie was fractionally higher. Pere Marquette in demand at current prices.
Outside of this group the rails were unable to make much progress. Among the industrials the sugar, copper and tobacco stocks made the best market record today. Oil and textile stocks were sold quite heavily in the first hour. Some of the oils were sold down a point or more from the previous close.
Cuban sugars sold higher as raw and refined sugar prices firmed. General Electric made up part of the cash and stock dividends marked off before the opening of the market.
Call money rates declined to .2 per cent as September financing was completed and money returned to the banks. Outside markets were steady but generally inactive.

Honor to Dead Soldier
The War department says when a soldier is buried the following is the procedure: The body is lowered into the grave as the priest or minister reads a short service. Usually music is played or a hymn is sung. A bugle then sounds taps, after which a firing squad fires three rounds over the grave. The guns are pointed upward, in no particular direction. After the funeral party leaves the cemetery the ceremonial help closes the grave.

To Correct a Mistake
A man in Mexico who was arrested for attempted murder, informed the court that he had shot at the wrong person. Subsequently he was released and will now be able to put the matter right.—London Opinion.

AUSTRALIA HAS SCHEME TO TREBLE POPULATION

Big Armies of British Workers and Other Desirable European Immigrants Are Sought.

London.—Australia is seeking suitable immigrants, and a scheme has been prepared to increase the population to 20,000,000, according to a statement issued by the department of labor and industry in Sydney, N. S. W. The population now is about 5,500,000. The plan, devised by General Earle, is based on army methods, and will be brought before the Colonial Institute for consideration. It is stated that big armies of British workers will be necessary to insure a British basis for the new settlement, and those modern conveniences of civilization which make for permanency must be provided.

To feed and clothe the newcomers during pioneering and at the same time teach them up-to-date methods of earning a livelihood from the soil will call for order and discipline, hence the proposed adoption of army methods. The suggested conditions for settlers are: British origin or approved European nationality; voluntary agreement for three months as a pioneer worker; a deposit of $100 for six months' pay kept in hand; a basis of 48 hours' work a week; free transport, housing and feeding, cure and instruction; hospital accommodation and medical attendance; pay of 75 cents per day of efficiency, deferred pay and, on completion of contract, a potential freehold, complete after three years' domicile as a citizen, with house and equipment in a closer settlement area and a bonus of $490.

At the same time the report of the overseas settlement delegation, appointed by the British government to secure information regarding the prospects of immigrants in Australia, expresses the opinion that the arrangements for the reception and care of immigrants constitutes a solid testimony of the states to shoulder their responsibilities and give the newcomer a fair start.

It is thought by members of the delegation that the nominating system is the safest that can be devised, and it was particularly impressed with the possibilities for the absorption of boys between sixteen and eighteen years of age. The delegation was also impressed with the extensive activities of the state governments in the development of land settlement schemes.

The report dwells on the difficulties in the way of rapid settlement of immigrants, particularly married men with families, on farms of their own, but members of the delegation were struck by the evidence of the ability of townsmen to succeed on the land. It was thought that an absorption of 50,000 persons during the present year could be hoped for.

At a conference of state and federal immigration officers held in Melbourne to consider methods for the training of assisted immigrants, it was decided to recommend that, where the number of arriving immigrants warranted established, farm training depots should be borne equally by the commonwealth and state governments. The length of training was to be left to the state authorities.

Last year Mrs. Van Winkle went to England to aid Lady Astor in her fight to retain British policewomen.

Terrier Adopts Squirrels
Napa, Cal.—At the Edward Maxwell ranch in Combeville, east of Napa, two five-week-old gray squirrels are being mothered by a fox terrier, and both squirrels and "mother" seem to be enjoying the experience. Maxwell found the baby squirrels deserted in a nest upon his place, and placed them in charge of the dog, who accepted them with affection.

The Humanities
The humanities are those branches of education or study which are included in what are called elegant learning, as languages, grammar, philosophy and poetry, including the ancient classics. The name implies that the study of these branches has a tendency to humanize man, to cultivate particularly those faculties which distinguish him as a man in all his relations, social and moral; that is, which make him a truly cultured man.

Old Watering Place
In Greece there are still remnants of a city that was a famous watering place long before the Christian era. It is the town of Odipos and the emperors of Rome went there to take sulphur baths and rests. The boiling sulphur waters still pour out of the crevices in the rocks, and ruins of the buildings are still apparent. The streets of the little village are bordered on each side with streams of hot sulphur water.

Warm and Cold-Blooded
Cold-blooded animals are those (mostly of the vertebrates of classes below birds) whose body temperatures vary with that of the water or air in which they live. Warm-blooded animals are those, such as birds and mammals, which have a relatively high and constant body temperature, usually considerably above that of the surrounding medium.

Yankees and Brooklyn Gain

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 4.—The hot pennant fight in the two big leagues remained practically stationary after yesterday's games, with the Yankees in the American League and the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League registering slight gains.

Today the New York Giants still led the procession in the elder league by the margin of a game over Pittsburgh, but Pittsburgh lost half a game to the fast-moving Dodgers when the latter scored a double barreled victory over the Phillies while the Pirates were winning only one from St. Louis. The Dodgers are now only half a game behind the Pirates and a game and a half back of the leaders.

The Yankees crept up on the Senators in the American League by winning from Boston while the Senators were idle. The latter lead the league a game.

EPINARD'S BIG RACE

Epinaud, the famous four year old champion running horse of France, will race such American equine stars as Wilderness, Miss Star, Sun Pal, Snob II and Baffling at Belmont Park, Long Island, on September 4. At Aqueduct track on September 27 the French horse will meet Princess Boreen, My Own, Little Chief and other stars of the turf. The progress of the horses in each international race will be told stride by stride via a hook-up of twenty-one radio broadcast stations. This means much work to present an event which will last less than two minutes. Verily horse racing is the sport of kings.

GENARO-VILLA BOUT OFF.

Whooping Cough Confines Genaro to His Home.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 4.—Frankie Genaro was confined to his home in Brooklyn today with whooping cough and there is no probability that he will be able to meet Pancho Villa in a bout for the world's flyweight championship for several months. The bout, scheduled for Henderson Bowl, in Brooklyn, was called off last night. Genaro is believed to have contracted the disease from his two children, who have been suffering from it for several days.

Genaro will be in bed at least a week, it was said, and several more weeks will be required before he will have entirely recovered.

Firepo and Wills Resume Training

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 4.—Luis Angel Firepo, the Argentine heavyweight, who is to meet Harry Wills September 11 at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, resumed his training today in the gymnasium at Madison Square Garden, having laid off yesterday when paraphernalia for work and his sparring partners were delayed in reaching the city from Saratoga Springs.

Bill Tate and Sam Townsend, the two burly negroes who do most of the receiving when Firepo is doing his training boxing, have arrived.

A full sized ring has been set up. Only newspaper men and photographers will be permitted inside.

At Southampton, on Long Island Sound, Harry Wills also resumed training where he left off Tuesday. He expressed great concern over the probability of Firepo's being deported, declaring himself to be in the finest shape.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The on-rushing Dodgers made it eleven straight by taking another double-header from the Phillies, 7 to 6 and 7 to 0, and are now less than two games astern of the Giants. Doak allowed only two hits and Wheat collected two homers in the night cap.

Dr. Neft was called into consultation for the ailing Giants and beat the Braves, 4 to 1, holding them hitless after the first inning and keeping ing the champions in front by one game.

Pittsburgh clung to second place by murdering the cardinals, 14 to 1, but failed to gain on the Giants.

The Yanks crept up to within a game of the lead by trimming the Red Sox, 11 to 6, while Washington was idle. Beall, the $50,000 recruit, did well until he went out for a new attitude record in the eighth.

Detroit jumped into the race again by booting the White Sox twice, 6 to 2 and 6 to 4.

The Cleveland and St. Louis out-landers ran themselves out of breath as the teams split a double bill, the Browns winning the first game, 7 to 6, and the Indians copping the second, 9 to 5.

The Reds couldn't see Tony Kaufmann's fast balls without a telescope and the Cubs whitewashed them 6 to 0.
